

Corporate History

Avionics Support Group, Inc. (ASG) was founded in 1996 by three commercial professionals. ASG began by manufacturing harnesses, providing system installations, and manpower support to airlines, engineering companies, OEM's, and local repair stations.

Facilities and capabilities grew quickly in response to demand. By 1998, ASG was certified as an FAA-PMA approved facility, and expanded to include a second location at Miami International Airport.

By 2000, ASG was gaining acclaim with a rapidly expanding customer base, setting new quality standards for installation kits and on site avionics installations worldwide. Simultaneously, ASG continued expanding our capabilities by offering engineering, certification, and DAR services. Our first STC was achieved in August of 1999, and in October 2000 we added a Systems and Equipment DER to our engineering staff.

Today, Avionics Support Group, Inc. is a leader in avionics system integrations. At our new 9500 sq. ft. manufacturing facility, we are proud to offer capabilities supporting STC certification projects from initial engineering to installations all over the world.

Our growing team works hard every day to offer you the only Single Source Solution in the industry.

At ASG we are... “Committed to Keep you Flying!”
